

Dear recruiter,

I started my career in 1994 studying Senior Administration. My interest in Computer Science led me years later to study Computer Systems Management [ASIR].

In 2014 I traveled to the UK where I was "Team Leader" in the production chain for "Kellog's" at XPO LOGISTICS. Later I worked for the Instituto Cervantes in Manchester whilst preparing for the English certification exam.

I came back to Spain in November 2017 with renewed energy and looking for new challenges. In 2018 I obtained the C1 English advanced certification, in addition I also obtained a Professional Certificate in Web Application Development. In October 2018, I started a Bootcamp in Geekshubs Academy where I received intensive training for 3 months as a Full Stack JavaScript Developer.

My work experience as a developer began in 2019 as Junior Frontend in Vue and React projects, as well as doing some collaboration works through dev communities and online courses that all together make up these years of experience that I have gained.

As for soft skills I have a great capacity of adaptation and a multidisciplinary profile, these have allowed me to be effectively involved on each project in which I have participated in throughout my career, successfully achieving the established objectives and meeting the expectations of each position. I consider myself an organized, proactive, dynamic, tolerant, empathetic and respectful person.

I remain available to expand the information on my CV through a personal interview and look forward to hearing from you soon.

Yours faithfully,
Gabriel Ballester
